

FAO Land and Water Division is looking for the following as part of a larger impact assessment study of investments in Agricultural Water Management in the African context: (Please e-mail CV and cover letter to nina.hissen@fao.org asap!)

International Consultant #1 | Agriculture Water Management Expert

Under the overall supervision of FAO-NRL and the direct supervision of the Team Leader, and working closely with national consultants and other members of the international multi-disciplinary team, the international consultant will:

- a) Assist the Team Leader in preparing ToRs and a workplan for the national consultants on agriculture water management.
- b) Provide input to the desk and portfolio reviews and the assessment framework/ indicators, regarding technical aspects of agriculture water management.
- c) Closely follow-up the work of national consultants in pilot countries on agriculture water management issues.
- d) Consolidate the work of national consultants dealing with his/her thematic area (agriculture water management) on the full assessment report; including missions to the five pilot countries to be conducted.
- e) Prepare a summary report on the results of the assessment regarding his/her thematic area (agriculture water management) comparing the five pilot countries and providing recommendations on AWM related investments.
- f) Attend the Regional Workshop and participate in both general discussions and those specific to his/her thematic area.
- g) Prepare a presentation on the summary report to deliver at the Regional Workshop.

Qualifications: Higher education degree in water resources management/irrigation and drainage with minimum 15 years' experience in his/her particular professional area. Proven experience on project evaluation in Africa.

Duty station: Home based. The consultant will travel to the 5 pilot countries (four days) and will attend the Regional workshop (three days).

Duration: 45 days honorarium.

International Consultant #2 | Water Policy/Governance

Under the overall supervision of FAO-NRL and the direct supervision of the Team Leader, and working closely with national consultants and other members of the international multi-disciplinary team, the international consultant will:

- a) Assist the Team Leader in preparing ToRs and a workplan for the national consultants on water policy/governance.
- b) Provide input to the desk and portfolio reviews and the assessment framework/ indicators, regarding the policy/governance aspects of agriculture water management.

- c) Closely follow-up the work of national consultants on water policy/governance.
- d) Consolidate the work of national consultants dealing with his/her thematic area (water policy/governance) on the full assessment report; including missions to the five pilot countries to be conducted.
- e) Prepare a summary report on the results of the assessment regarding his/her thematic area (water policy/governance) comparing the five pilot countries and providing recommendations on AWM related investments.
- f) Attend the Regional Workshop and participate in both general discussions and those specific to his/her thematic area.
- g) Prepare a presentation on the summary report to deliver at the Regional Workshop.

Qualifications: Higher education degree in water resources management/water policy/governance with minimum ten years' experience in his/her particular professional area. Proven experience on project evaluation in Africa.

Duty station: Home based. The consultant will travel to the five project countries (four days) and will attend the Regional workshop (three days).

Duration: 35 days honorarium.

International Consultant #3 | Water Economist

Under the overall supervision of FAO-NRL and the direct supervision of the Team Leader, and working closely with national consultants and other members of the international multi-disciplinary team, the international consultant will:

- a) assist the Team Leader in preparing ToRs and a workplan for the national consultants working as water economists.
- b) provide input to the desk and portfolio reviews and the assessment framework/ indicators, regarding the economic and financial aspects of agriculture water management.
- c) closely follow-up the work of national consultants on economic and financial analysis of AWM projects.
- d) consolidate the work of national consultants dealing with his/her thematic area (water economist) on the full assessment report; including missions to the five pilot countries to be conducted.
- e) prepare a summary report on the results of the assessment regarding his/her thematic area (water economist) comparing the five pilot countries and providing recommendations on AWM related investments.
- f) attend the Regional Workshop and participate in both general discussions and those specific to his/her thematic area.
- g) prepare a presentation on the summary report to deliver at the Regional Workshop.

Qualifications: Higher education degree in water resources management/water economics and financial analysis with minimum ten years' experience in his/her particular professional area. Proven experience on project evaluation in Africa.

Duty station: Home based. The consultant will travel to the five pilot countries (four days) and will attend the Regional workshop (three days).

Duration: 35 days honorarium.

Further -

FAO Land and Water Division is looking for a consultant to support the division with the following expertise:

- Agricultural Water Management with economic analysis skills
- Water Policy
- Focus and experience in developing country context
- Duty station is Rome, with some travel to Africa, Middle East and other regions.
- Degree in relevant area
- 3-5 Years of work experience
- Start date as soon as possible
- Short/ medium-term contract with potential for renewal

Please e-mail your CV and a short (!) cover letter to nina.hissen@fao.org asap!